

Evening Chat

Fairmont sportsmen are gentlemen. They may be in their leisure moments, bootleggers, horse thieves, politicians or anything else, but just as soon as they don their khaki and throw their gun across their shoulder they are gentlemen. Proof of this happened yesterday.

A local Nimrod started out, despite the warm weather, hunting for rabbits. A little before noon he came to a likely looking corpse and ignoring warnings to trespassers, climbed over the fence. Pretty soon he got a shot at a rabbit and a minute later an old farmer put in an appearance.

"Say, looka here young man. Didn't you see that sign there?" and he pointed to the cardboard lettered:

PRIVATE

Trespassers are warned to keep off these premises, etc.

"Sure I saw it," said the gentleman huntsman, "but do you think I am going to read anything marked 'Private'."

Advices from the farmer's home late this afternoon say he is still suffering from shock, but will likely recover before election day.

Newspaper men are curious chaps, having very odd ways of spending their leisure moments. One raised ten cents last night and went to a moving picture theatre, took a seat in a dark corner, and listened to what his neighbors were talking about. Here is a sample:

"—and what do you think, Anna's ambition is to be either a female Charlie Chaplin or a man killer."

"That man is the same one that set in front of us in the Nelson."

"Don't you miss Howell's playing here anymore?"

"Oh, I like her's too, but you know his was so—well, sturdy like, you know."

"Here, put you hand down in my overcoat pocket."

"No-o, not like I used too."

"You better take your hand away, 'cause if the lights come on between pictures—"

"Are you cold now?"

"Not at all."

"Sure."

"That's the Humoresque ain't it?"

"No, it's Pretty Baby, from Il Trovatore, I think."

"Sure you're not cold?"

"Positive."

"Here comes Glen again, he's surely following us."

"—and then I says 'Looka here, whatja think you're doin', and then he says, 'Well, listen, but I cut 'im short and says—"

"Now if you're cold, just say so."

"But I'm not, really."

"All right."

LOCAL SOCIAL EVENTS

A Halloween Tea

One of the most attractively appointed Halloween events of the season was an afternoon tea at which Mrs. Tusca Morris was hostess yesterday afternoon at her home on Fairmont avenue. Invitations issued a week ago gave no intimation that the event would be out of the conventional and the guests arrived wholly unaware that witches and goblins would greet them. Mrs. Arthur G. Martin attired in a Spanish costume, greeted the guests after they had been assured by Robert Chesney Morris, attired in a Yama Yama costume. Mrs. Morris, attired in an attractive Gypsy costume, received her guests in the living room where she was assisted by a bevy of masked aides in costumes of dancing girls, gypsies, a trained nurse and a delightful old lady.

They were Mesdames R. M. Hite, J. S. LeMasters, Theodore Werkman, Clarence Hall, Fred Helmick. A phantom figure directed the guests to the dining room where two witches, Mrs. A. L. Lehman and Mrs. E. M. Hoge, presided at the serving table. Ghosts served the refreshments passing about the guests silently and creating much interest as to the person behind the mask. The ghosts were Mesdames Frank P. Hall, Joseph Rosier, E. C. Jones, Walter Boydston, W. J. Wiegell, Joseph Hoss, M. R. Frantz and Miss Ida Stone.

The receiving rooms were delightfully decorated for the event, trailing vines in autumnal tints combined with grinning jack-o'-lanterns, and other Halloween emblems in an artistic manner. A big pumpkin hollowed out and filled with fruit formed the centerpiece of serving table which was lighted by yellow shaded candles.

A witches coudron presided over by a miniature witch contained the favors, which were tiny cats with wagging tails and grotesque masks. During the evening Victrola music was rendered which was under the direction of Linn Hall who also wore a Yama Yama costume. A large number of guests were entertained.

Courts Again Punch Hole in the Yost Law

CAN'T STOP AN AUTOMOBILE FILLED WITH BOOZE IF IT'S LABELED.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 3.—Application for writ of error was denied today at a special term of Circuit court in a case that virtually established the right of a person under the prohibition laws to haul intoxicating liquors into the state in an automobile for personal use, provided the liquor is labeled.

It was the case of Lloyd Duff, who was arrested some time ago at Salem while importing a large quantity of liquor and who was convicted in the Criminal court and sentenced to serve six months on the county roads and to pay a fine of $100 and the costs. The judgment of the Criminal court was today affirmed.

Formerly it was the contention of county and state officers that the importation of liquors in large quantities in automobiles was a violation of the law and many arrests of motorists were made. It was held later that an automobile especially engaged was not a common carrier.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

SALTS, CALOMEL, PILLS ACT ON BOWELS LIKE PEPPER ACTS IN NOSTRILS.

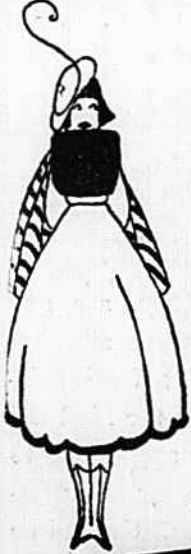

ENJOY LIFE! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, SICK, HEADACHY AND CONSTIPATED.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets. And they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

The season is agog with comely dress creations and comfort is pre-eminent at last.

LA FRANCE has never before had so rich an assortment of styles in shoes to offer, each passing the censor with full merit marks for comfort, fit and style.
